GENEVA, Dec. 11.—Karl J. Hambro, of Norway, newly elected president of the League of Nations assembly, warned delegates today
they must do their utmost to halt
the Russian-Finnish war.

The new president, however, personally held little hope that the Russians would listen to any appeal to take their troops out of Finland.

A gesture in that direction was the first step, delegates said, to be taken before acting on the Finnish appeal to condemn Russia as an aggressor.

"It is for us to act in order that little people in distress will not be deceived," Hambro said.

Review Documents

As the council session opened,
Secretary-General Joseph A. C.
Avelar issued a list of 14 documents submitted by the Finns which included the notes between Finland and Russia and a report on the bombardments of Helsinki.
The Russian delegate, Jakob Surin, remained in his hotel and received reports of proceedings through his assistants.

"This is the fatal hour," Hambro said when he took the chair from Count Carton De Wiart, Belgian
president of the council.

"This assembly is a point of departure for a new hope. We face a very grave moment, and it is the duty of every league member to remain true to its ideals."

Referring to the Finnish appeal against Russia, Hambro added:
"One member of the league is threatened by another member of the league and is defending its right with heroism. The league of nations was created to keep the peace. We are therefore called upon to prevent what is now happening from proceeding."

Majority Favor Finns
As the trial shifted to the league assembly, most delegations already had signified their intention of voting for condemning Russia—or,
at least, assenting by casting no ballot—and for resolving to ask member states to give the Finns all possible aid.

Argentina intends to demand
Russia's expulsion immediately after Finland makes her charges and Norway has been active organizing a Scandinavian bloc in a campaign to obtain material aid for Finland as well as shut it off from Russia.

The decision whether Russia should be expelled from the league is four guilty of Finland's charge is the aggressor in the undeclared Finnish-Russian war requires a unanimous vote of the council which the assembly will elect.

The Russians have indicated they will not be expelled from the league without doing something about it. What that might be made the British think anxiously of India and the Turks and Transjans of themselves.

which opened today in the town

pies, cakes, and candy, and such products as potatoes, apples and corn for which the merchants of that village are offering worthwhile

The sessions, which opened this

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Dec. 11.—Great Britain disclosed new reverses in sea warfare today, including the loss of a mine-sweeper and five merchant ships. The mine-sweeper was the Ray of Hope, which officials said was sunk by a mine. She was the fifth British minesweeper sent to the bottom. The steamer Willow-pool of 4,815 tons struck a mine
and sank while 36 of her crew
were rescued.

Four merchant ships, an official announcement said, were long over-
due and must be considered lost.
They were the:

Ashlea, 4,222 tons.
Newton Beech, 4,651 tons.
Trevanion, 5,299 tons.
Huntsman, 8,196 tons.

The four minesweepers previously sunk with a loss of 50 lives were
the Northern Rover, Mastiff, Ara-gonite and Washington, part of a
fleet of small vessels impressed into service to supplement the British fleet.

Four of the Ray of Hope's crew were killed, and five were missing.

Action on Western Front

Meanwhile, British troops were disclosed to have come to grips
with Germans on the French front.
Movement of the Tommies into
action with the enemy occurred
shortly before King George VI visited observation posts and inspected great Maginot line fortresses.
The monarch returned from the front last night, on the eve of the third anniversary of his accession
to the throne.

It was reported British troops
had been on the front line several days, but news of the action was withheld until the return of the king.

The troop action diverted attention momentarily from the intense
sea warfare, which sent two neutral
ships to the bottom yesterday. The 398-ton Netherlands motorship Im-
mingham was struck by a mine off
the northern Holland coast, with the crew reported rescued; the
1,928-ton Swedish steamer Vinga
sank after an explosion, and the crew was saved.

The 5,182-ton Belgian freighter Kabania broke in half after going aground on Goodwin sands, and the 758-ton British steamer Fire
King was reported damaged in a collision with a British freighter
in the Irish sea.

HARLEY C. REED,
51, IS STRUCK AT
SCENE OF WRECKHad Assisted In Getting

IS EXONERATED"Unavoidable Accident" Is Verdict Of Coroner
Arnold Devon

Harley C. Reed, 51, of 110 N.
Main st., Columbiana, joint operator of the Reed-Hill garage at Columbiana, was killed almost instantly at 7:15 p. m. Sunday when struck by an automobile just after assisting in getting a large tractor-
trailer out of a ditch as a result
of an earlier mishap.

The accident occurred about
three and one-half miles east of the junction of Routes 14 and 7
and about 300 feet west of Hoff-
master's inn, according to reports
by Patrolmen P. D. Barnes and J.
K. Jones.

The car which hit Reed was a
sedan driven by Russell T. Stern, 38, of 364 Sharp ave., Salem, who
was returning home after visiting relatives at Beaver Falls, Pa.

Driver Exonerated
Stern, who was exonerated by Coroner Arnold Devon and state
highway patrolmen, said he failed
to see Reed until too late. Stern
swerved his car into the ditch in
an effort to avoid hitting the man.
Coroner Devon ruled "unavoidable
accident."

Reed had accompanied the wrecker from his garage to the scene in an attempt to get the
truck-trailer onto the highway.
The connection between tow car
and truck was made and Reed, it
was reported, walked onto the road to watch the coupling as the wrecker pulled the truck from the ditch. He was preparing to step
onto the running board of the disabled truck when struck by Stern's
west-bound car.

The victim was brought to Fa-
lem City hospital by John S.
Wright of R. D. 1, Akron, owner of the truck, but was pronounced dead upon arrival. The body was removed to the Fry funeral home
at Columbiana.

None of the vehicles collided. In the car with Stern were his wife and four children. None was injured.

Truck, Bus Sideswipe

The truck which was in tow was disabled in a "sideswipe" accident
with a Greyhound bus at 3 p. m.
Sunday, the state highway patrol
reported.

Nineteen passengers on the bus
were shaken up when the vehicle in charge of Ray Gets, 33, of Pittsburgh, and the truck, driven by Byron D. Clopin, 23, of Mogadore, went into ditches on either side of Route 14.

Mr. Reed moved to Columbiana
from Leetonia in 1931 to become
half owner of the Reed-Hill Motor
Co. of Columbiana.

Born in East Liverpool July 31,
1888, he was the son of Mr. and
Mrs. John Reed. He was a member of the Leetonia Methodist church. He was married in 1909 to Jennie Kirkbride.

Besides his wife, Mr. Reed leaves
one daughter, Dolores; a sister, Mrs.
Victor Davis of Wheeling, W. Va.,
and three brothers, Albert, William
and Roy of East Liverpool. One
sister preceded him in death.

Funeral service will be held at 2
p. m. Wednesday at the Fry funeral home in Columbiana in charge of Rev. S. J. Shoemaker of Leetonia. Burial will be in Colum-biana cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Tuesday.
Automobiles driven by Charles
Conkle, 29, of R. D. Leetonia, and John Dudick, 47, of Belle Vernon, Pa., were involved in a crash on
the Lisbon road, one mile south of Salem, at 9:45 a. m. Sunday but no one was injured, the state patrol said.

Both vehicles were enroute north Conkle is reported to have attempted to make a left turn onto
a side road.

A machine operated by Arthur Foley, 58, of E. Second st. was involved in a minor accident on Route 45 at 6:30 p. m. Sunday. No
one was reported hurt.

pool of 4,815 tons struck a mine
and sank while 36 of her crew
were rescued.

Four merchant ships, an official
announcement said, were long over-
due and must be considered lost.
They were:

Ashlea, 4,222 tons.
Newton Beech, 4,651 tons.
Trevanion, 5,299 tons.
Huntsman, 8,196 tons.

The four minesweepers previously sunk with a loss of 50 lives were
the Northern Rover, Mastiff, Ara-
gonite and Washington, part of a
fleet of small vessels impressed into
service to supplement the British fleet.

Action on Western Front

Meanwhile, British troops were
disclosed to have come to grips
with Germans on the French front.
Movement of the Tommies into
action with the enemy occurred
shortly before King George VI visited observation posts and inspected great Maginot line fortresses.

The monarch returned from the
front last night, on the eve of the third anniversary of his accession
to the throne.

It was reported British troops
had been on the front line several
days, but news of the action was
withheld until the return of the king.

The troop action diverted attention momentarily from the intense
sea warfare, which sent two neutral
ships to the bottom yesterday. The 398-ton Netherlands motorship Im-
mingham was struck by a mine off
the northern Holland coast, and
the crew reported rescued; the
1,928-ton Swedish steamer Vinga
sank after an explosion, and the
crew was saved.

The 5,182-ton Belgian freighter Kabinda broke in half after going aground on Goodwin sands, and the 758-ton British steamer Fire
King was reported damaged in a
collision with a British freighter
in the Irish sea.

Lifeboat Discovered

Discovery of three lifeboats
from the 7,834-ton German East Africa liner Usukuma drifting in the Atlantic off the Argentine coast caused shipping circles to believe the crew might have scuttled the ship. A Reuters, British news agency, report from Capetown.

owner, who had been taxed only for a lot. So Strauss, now a resi-

HARLEY C. REED,
51, IS STRUCK AT
SCENE OF WRECK

Had Assisted In Getting Tractor-Trailer Out
Of Ditch

DRIVER OF CAR
IS EXONERATED

"Unavoidable Accident" Is
Verdict Of Coroner
Arnold Devon

Harley C. Reed, 51, of 110 N.
Main st., Columbiana, joint operator of the Reed-Hill garage at Columbiana, was killed almost instantly at 7:15 p. m. Sunday when struck by an automobile just after
assisting in getting a large tractor-
trailer out of a ditch as a result
of an earlier mishap.

The accident occurred about
three and one-half miles east of
the junction of Routes 14 and 7
and about 300 feet west of Hoff-
master's inn, according to reports
by Patrolmen P. D. Barnes and G.
K. Jones.

The car which hit Reed was a
sedan driven by Russell T. Stern,
38, of 364 Sharp ave., Salem, who
was returning home after visiting
relatives at Beaver Falls, Pa.

Driver Exonerated

Stern, who was exonerated by Coroner Arnold Devon and state
highway patrolmen, said he failed
to see Reed until too late. Stern
swerved his car into the ditch in
an effort to avoid hitting the man.
Coroner Devon ruled "unavoidable
accident."

Reed had accompanied the
wrecker from his garage to the
scene in an attempt to get the
truck-trailer onto the highway.
The connection between tow car
and truck was made and Reed, it
was reported, walked onto the
road to watch the coupling as the
wrecker pulled the truck from the ditch. He was preparing to step
onto the running board of the disabled truck when struck by Stern's
west-bound car.

The victim was brought to Salem City hospital by John S.
Wright of R. D. 1, Akron, owner of
the truck, but was pronounced
dead upon arrival. The body was removed to the Fry funeral home
at Columbiana.

None of the vehicles collided. In
the car with Stern were his wife
and four children. None was injured.

Truck, Bus Sideswipe

The truck which was in tow was
disabled in a "sideswipe" accident
with a Greyhound bus at 3 p. m.
Sunday, the state highway patrol
reported.

Nineteen passengers on the bus
were shaken up when the wrecker in charge of Ray Getz, 33, of Pittsburgh, and the truck, driven by Byron D. Cloplin, 23, of Mogadore, went into ditches on either side of
Route 14.

Mr. Reed moved to Columbiana
from Leetonia in 1931 to become
half owner of the Reed-Hill Motor
Co. of Columbiana.

Born in East Liverpool July 31,
1888, he was the son of Mr. and
Mrs. John Reed. He was a member of the Leetonia Methodist church. He was married in 1909 to Jennie Kirkbride.

Besides his wife, Mr. Reed leaves
one daughter, Dolores; a sister, Mrs.
Victor Davis of Wheeling, W. Va.,
and three brothers, Albert, William
and Roy of East Liverpool. One
sister preceded him in death.

Funeral service will be held at 2
p. m. Wednesday at the Fry funeral home in Columbiana in charge of Rev. S. J. Shoemaker of Leetonia. Burial will be in Colum-biana cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Tuesday.

Automobiles driven by Charles
Conkle, 29, of R. D. 1, Leetonia, and John Duder, 47, of Belle Vernon,
Pa., were involved in a crash on
the Lisbon road, one mile south of Salem, at 9:45 p. m. Sunday but no one was injured, the state patrol said.

Both vehicles were enroute north Conkle is reported to have attempted to make a left turn onto
a side road.

A machine operated by Arthur Fry, 28, of E. Second st. was involved in a minor accident on Route 45 at 6:30 p. m. Sunday. No
one was reported hurt.

BEHIND THE LABOR BOARD

Public hearings scheduled to open this week should resolve some of the doubts about the performance of the National Labor Relations board. They will be held by a special committee created early last summer by a house of representatives most of whose members believed it was time for a showdown.

There are four particular points to be investigated. First, has the board been impartial between employers and employees and between rival unions? Second, has it increased or decreased labor disputes and employment, improved or injured general economic conditions? Third, are changes in the labor relations law desirable to improve relations between employers and employees and between rival unions? Fourth, has the board misinterpreted the labor act, with particular reference to the meaning of "interstate commerce"?

Investigation cannot ignore the thing behind the board and behind the act it administers. Fact is, the board itself is inconsequential, being merely the front for an administrative policy that has been placed in question both by popular opinion and congressional action. If the house committee performs properly, responsibility will be placed where it belongs—not on the administrators of a law that seems to mean what an administrative agency says it means but on those whose principles members of the board are interested in upholding.

INVOLUNTARY HYPOCHONDRIA

When everything's said—and there's no scarcity of opinion when the annual Congress of American Industry meets—the result is thorough self-diagnosis of the condition of the industrial system.

While some may feel the diagnosis is too much concerned with government and not enough with industry, the fact is that government is so vitally concerned with business that it deserves all the attention it gets.

A significant thing about the platforms adopted by the congress in the past few years, noticeable again this year, is the unshaken faith of its members in the fundamentally sound health of American industry.

The trouble, such as it is, springs from attempts to cure things that either don't exist, or existing things that only can be cured by first enlisting the wholehearted cooperation of the patient.

There has been, in other words, a kind of involuntary hypochondria imposed by pill peddlers, politician and otherwise, on American industry. It knows better in these days of universally ingrowing politics than to expect to be let alone, but insists it would be able better to support the growing army of healers who have attached themselves to it if they didn't try to cure it to death.

This is the gist of the platform adopted by the congress at its annual meeting. The pill peddler, unfortunately, don't adopt a platform. Their policies are extemporaneous: Catch the patient when he isn't looking and slap on another plaster, make another incision, force down another pill.

FIRST 100 DAYS

The war now sputters into its second hundred days. It's no longer a short war, certainly not a "blitzkrieg," but relatively little has happened.

Yet, in its first 100 days the war was momentous. It revealed that this isn't going to be an ordinary garden variety war with one side licking the other, then arranging an armistice with everybody expecting to live happily ever afterward.

Since the war started, last September, the antics of Russia have proved that Europe isn't fighting over the perennial balance of power issue, but to keep Asiatic revolutionaries from spreading westward. The British, who had sought an alliance with Russia at Germany's expense, are now chiefly concerned with the result of Germany's alliance with Russia at everybody's expense. Germany is only incidentally the enemy of the Allies now. Russia's invasion of Finland and its preparations to proceed against Roumania make this unpleasantly plain.

Like Italy, which still affirms its friendship for Germany while preparing to fight Russian encroachment in the Balkans; like Sweden, Norway and Denmark, sacrificing their cherished neutrality to check Russian encroachment in the Baltic via Finland, its first victim; like all neutral states on the continent, now realizing there can be no neutrality where revolution is concerned, Great Britain and France are seeing the war in a new light.

T'WAS ALWAYS THUS

Professional baseball tolerates a czar because strong arm methods got it out of a jam after the infamous "Black Sox" scandal. The czar is Kenesaw Mountain Landis, former judge, who bears the mouth-filling title of commissioner for American and National Leagues of Professional Baseball clubs and the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. His reign began Nov. 12, 1920.

When it began, of course, mutterings began too. They have rumbled with more or less intensity for 19 years and reached a climax when Commissioner Landis exercised his dictatorial prerogatives in the annual baseball meeting at Cincinnati by doing what he thought was good for baseball in the matter of farm clubs and working agreements—the "chain store" system.

Unfortunately, what Mr. Landis thinks is good for baseball isn't what an apparent majority of officials think is good for it in this instance. To their strenuous objections, the high commissioner says, "Bosh." There is, consequently, a movement afoot to unseat the czar of baseball. Caesar, it seems, has been eating too much meat again. The fact that Caesar still thinks he knows best doesn't cut any ice—never did. Perhaps it's not without some benefit to the country that the thing which "can't happen here" should be available for intimate study in, of all places, the national pastime.

STALIN SHOULD TURN IN HIS BADGE

If the rumor that Russia's about to withdraw from the League of Nations doesn't blow up, then certainly its resignation should be demanded.

The theory of the League of Nations was that strong and weak nations should join hands to provide collective security. The jungle law of big dog eat little dog was to be repealed.

There would be cooperative policing of international affairs to keep the strong from oppressing the weak and from trying to oppress one another. It was a high ideal.

It didn't pan out, unfortunately. The organization is moribund. The least Joseph Stalin can do is turn in his badge. The policeman has been caught using his club on children.

This year's team members were: Frank Spencer, captain-elect; Sheehan, trainer; James Kesselmeire, "Chic" Roessler, Kenneth Buraw, Lloyd Yoder, Abel Miller, Cecil Scullion, John Litty, captain, Thomas Moore, William Robusch, Park Miskimins, Marion Conkle, John Siskowic, Douglas Vivian, coach; R. THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, December 12

A RATHER happy state of affairs is read from the predominant lunar aspects. The major interests will be centered about the home—domestic, social or affectional. It would be well to shun hasty moves or decisions, thus averting annoying situations. Private correspondence should be handled with discretion. Likewise, be careful not to indulge in extravagance or any form of excess.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a happy year rather than one of great accomplishment. The accent seems to be on social, domestic and emotional interests. Be prudent with writings and also curb tendencies to over-expenditure in pursuit of pleasure. A child born on this day may be lively, genial, gracious and devoted to home interests. It should enjoy a happy life.

A nation can't keep out of war by constantly ejaculating that in the end it must get into it.

There are times when the one point possible after touchdown looms as large as the national deficit.

Blue Discoloration Due To Silver, Says Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHAT causes a metallic bluish discoloration of the skin? An observing reader has seen a man on the streets of her city with this condition. Another example was seen at a sideshow of a fair. Sometimes blue discoloration of the face, lips and fingernails is due to congenital deformity of the heart, but the discoloration which has a metallic sheen is a most always due to a deposit of silver in the skin. The condition is known as "argyria."

It takes only a small amount of silver to discolor the skin this way, and the deposit is usually made from the use of some silver preparation.

Dr. Clendenning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ration in the form of medicine or a drug. Sometimes it may be an occupational disease, acquired in industry.

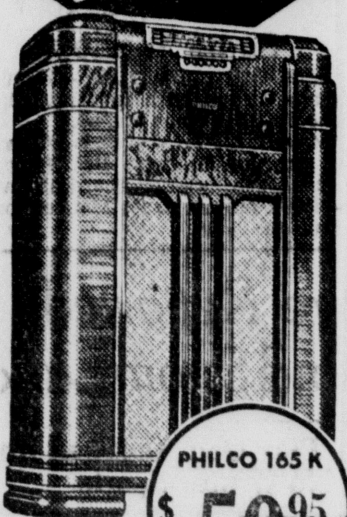

The people who have acquired blue skin in recent years usually have done so from the use of a silver solution used in the nose or throat. Silver nitrate, which is frequently used in throat applications, is a very soluble salt of silver, but even the organic preparation will produce the condition. It is a form of chronic poisoning, though there is no bad effect except the change in the color of the skin. The silver, of course, is in other organs of the body besides the skin.

A famous blue man who was a frequent exhibit at a sideshow was a former member of the British Army. After his death his body was examined and was found to contain a little over three ounces of silver, deposited not only in the skin but also in the liver and muscles.

Of course, the deposit in the skin turns darker and has a more metallic sheen than any place else because of the effect of sunlight on the silver salts after they are deposited in the skin—the same action as an old-fashioned photographic plate.

BEHIND THE LABOR BOARD

Public hearings scheduled to open this week should resolve some of the doubts about the performance of the National Labor Relations board. They will be held by a special committee created early last summer by a house of representatives most of whose members believed it was time for a showdown.

There are four particular points to be investigated. First, has the board been impartial between employers and employees and between rival unions? Second, has it increased or decreased labor disputes and employment, improved or injured general economic conditions? Third, are changes in the labor relations law desirable to improve relations between employers and employees and between rival unions? Fourth, has the board misinterpreted the labor act, with particular reference to the meaning of "interstate commerce"?

Investigation cannot ignore the thing behind the board and behind the act it administers. Fact is, the board itself is inconsequential, being merely the front for an administrative policy that has been placed in question both by popular opinion and congressional action. If the house committee performs properly, responsibility will be placed where it belongs—not on the administrators of a law that seems to mean what an administrative agency says it means but on those whose principles members of the board are interested in upholding.

When everything's said—and there's no scarcity of opinion when the annual Congress of American Industry meets—the result is thorough self-diagnosis of the condition of the industrial system.

While some may feel the diagnosis is too much concerned with government and not enough with industry, the fact is that government is so vitally concerned with business that it deserves all the attention it gets.

A significant thing about the platforms adopted by the congress in the past few years, noticeable again this year, is the unshaken faith of its members in the fundamentally sound health of American industry.

The trouble, such as it is, springs from attempts to cure things that either don't exist, or existing things that only can be cured by first enlisting the wholehearted cooperation of the patient.

There has been, in other words, a kind of involuntary hypochondria imposed by pill peddlers, politician and otherwise, on American industry. It knows better in these days of universally ingrowing politics than to expect to be let alone, but insists it would be able better to support the growing army of healers who have attached themselves to it if they didn't try to cure it to death.

This is the gist of the platform adopted by the congress at its annual meeting. The pill peddlers, unfortunately, don't adopt a platform. Their policies are extemporaneous: Catch the patient when he isn't looking! and slap on another plaster, make another incision, force down another pill.

FIRST 100 DAYS

The war now sputters into its second hundred days. It's no longer a short war, certainly not a "blitzkrieg," but relatively little has happened.

Yet, in its first 100 days the war was momentous. It revealed that this isn't going to be an ordinary garden variety war with one side licking the other, then arranging an armistice with everybody expecting to live happily ever afterward.

Since the war started, last September, the antics of Russia have proved that Europe isn't fighting over the perennial balance of power issue, but to keep Asiatic revolutionaries from spreading westward. The British, who had sought an alliance with Russia at Germany's expense, are now chiefly concerned with the result of Germany's alliance with Russia at everybody's expense. Germany is only incidentally the enemy of the Allies now. Russia's invasion of Finland and its preparations to proceed against Roumania make this unpleasantly plain.

Like Italy, which still affirms its friendship for Germany while preparing to fight Russian encroachment in the Balkans; like Sweden, Norway and Denmark, sacrificing their cherished neutrality to check Russian encroachment in the Baltic via Finland, its first victim; like all neutral states on the continent, now realizing there can be no neutrality where revolution is concerned, Great Britain and France are seeing the war in a new light.

T'WAS ALWAYS THUS

Professional baseball tolerates a czar because strong arm methods got it out of a jam after the infamous "Black Sox" scandal. The czar is Kenesaw Mountain Landis, former judge, who bears the mouth-filling title of commissioner for American and National Leagues of Professional Baseball clubs and the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues. His reign began Nov. 12, 1920.

When it began, of course, mutterings began too. They have rumbled with more or less intensity for 19 years and reached a climax when Commissioner Landis exercised his dictatorial prerogatives in the annual baseball meeting at Cincinnati by doing what he thought was good for baseball in the matter of farm clubs and working agreements—the "chain store" system.

Unfortunately, what Mr. Landis thinks is good for baseball isn't what an apparent majority of officials think is good for it in this instance. To their strenuous objections, the high commissioner says, "Bosh." There is, consequently, a movement afoot to unseat the czar of baseball. Caesar, it seems, has been eating too much meat again. The fact that Caesar still thinks he knows best doesn't cut any ice—never did. Perhaps it's not without some benefit to the country that the thing which "can't happen here" should be available for intimate study in, of all places, the national pastime.

STALIN SHOULD TURN IN HIS BADGE

If the rumor that Russia's about to withdraw from the League of Nations doesn't blow up, then certainly its resignation should be demanded.

The theory of the League of Nations was that strong and weak nations should join hands to provide collective security. The jungle law of big dog eat little dog was to be repealed.

There would be cooperative policing of international affairs to keep the strong from oppressing the weak and from trying to oppress one another. It was a high ideal.

It didn't pan out, unfortunately. The organization is moribund. The least Joseph Stalin can do is turn in his badge. The policeman has been caught using his club on children.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, December 12

A RATHER happy state of affairs is read from the predominant lunar aspects. The major interests will be centered about the home—domestic, social or affectional. It would be well to shun hasty moves or decisions, thus averting annoying situations. Private correspondence should be handled with discretion. Likewise, be careful not to indulge in extravagance or any form of excess.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a happy year rather than one of great accomplishment. The accent seems to be on social, domestic and emotional interests. Be prudent with writings and also curb tendencies to over-expenditure in pursuit of pleasure. A child born on this day may be lively, genial, gracious and devoted to home interests. It should enjoy a happy life.

A nation can't keep out of war by constantly ejaculating that in the end it must get into it.

There are times when the one point possible after a touchdown looms as large as the national deficit.

Blue Discoloration Due To Silver, Says Doctor

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHAT causes a metallic bluish discoloration of the skin? An observing reader has seen a man on the streets of her city with this condition. Another example was seen at a sideshow of a fair. Sometimes blue discoloration of the face, lips and fingernails is due to congenital deformity of the heart, but the discoloration which has a metallic sheen is a most always due to a deposit of silver in the skin. The condition is known as "argyria."

It takes only a small amount of silver to discolor the skin this way, and the deposit is usually made from the use of some silver preparation.

Dr. Clendingning will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

ration in the form of medicine or a drug. Sometimes it may be an occupational disease, acquired in industry. The people who have acquired blue skin in recent years usually have done so from the use of a silver solution used in the nose or throat. Silver nitrate, which is frequently used in throat applications, is a very soluble salt of silver, but even the organic preparation will produce the condition. It is a form of chronic poisoning, though there is no bad effect except the change in the color of the skin. The silver, of course, is in other organs of the body besides the skin.

A famous blue man who was a frequent exhibit at a sideshow was a former member of the British Army. After his death his body was examined and was found to contain a little over three ounces of silver, deposited not only in the skin but also in the liver and muscles.

Of course, the deposit in the skin turns darker and has a more metallic sheen than any place else because of the effect of sunlight on the silver salts after they are deposited in the skin—the same action as an old-fashioned photographic plate.

LOVE'S INTERLUDE by -MAY-CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS
Moira Carewe met handsome, devil-may-care Tarleton Griggs during the era of prohibition, jazz and the "Black Bottom." The son of a rich man, Tarry lived recklessly—only for today. It was that spirit which Moira loved. During her Christmas vacation from boarding school, Moira stayed at a modest hotel, in New York, with her father who was doing research work for the Museum of Natural History. To be near her, Tarry just moved from his Madison, Connecticut, home into his father's New York apartment, while the latter was out of town, even though he knew "the old man" raised the devil. Then followed a merry round of the night clubs and theaters.

CHAPTER II
Came the last night. The butler at Tournay Park, near Madison, had telephoned Tarry at his father's apartment in the Biltmore hotel. "Dad—the old buzzard—put in a transcontinental call for me at home at one in the morning from Frisco! Tubbs tipped me off to the bad news—he's our butler, you know—a darned nice chap! He rose to the occasion and lied like a gentleman—told Dad I was out at the stables with Bess, the roan mare—she's foaling—said he couldn't reach the vet, and I couldn't leave to come to the phone or Bess might kick off! I do know about horses," said Tarry gaily, "so the old man swallowed that, hook, line and sinker. But here's the catch! He left a message I was to phone him directly."

I returned to the house. You know he's as suspicious as the devil! "What did you do?" Moira asked. She was worried about this subterfuge. She didn't want Tarry to get in trouble with his father. She felt guilty somehow. "It was a ticklish situation," Tarry said, loftily, "but leave it to me to get out of a jam! After I'd left you last night—or rather, in the small hours of this morning—and got Tubbs' message, I got the clear at the switchboard in the building to get Dad's Frisco hotel on the line, then to say, very distinctly, 'Madison calling,' and to repeat it at least twice after he got through to Dad, and then I piped in!"

"I thought at first it was New York calling," said the old man, who's as cagey as they come. "Well, I suppose night-calls do go through New York. This is home I'm speaking from all right," I told him. "I'll try and get a better connection," and I made a dash for the service-phone. "Cut in again and say: 'Madison calling—three minutes is almost up!' I said to the clerk downstairs. It worked like a charm!" "Did your father have anything special to say to you?" Moira asked. "The main idea in phoning from that distance at that hour was to catch me out, naturally," Tarry chuckled. "He inquired about Bess, and when I said she was better—that my ministrations had turned the trick or what-have-you — he suggested I join him in Palm Beach right away, and we'll do the races and some yachting, and so forth. Not at all a bad idea!" She tried to smile gaily, congratulate Tarry. But at the word: "Palm Beach," she had instantly thought of Lady Careen. The Irish girl was riding in those races. She was thoroughbred as her horses. One of those thoroughbreds had been naïveté her from the Griggs stables. The rumor had spread round Madison that snobbish, self-made Joseph Griggs wanted blue blood in the family and not merely in the stables, and that the fortune he had made importing and exporting groceries was to have the stamp of aristocracy set upon it—through his only son—and Lady Careen. This was the second season the girl had come from Ireland, to do New York and Palm Beach, her hostesses being names to conjure with among what was left of the old Four Hundred. "You look as though you're seeing 'little people'—fairies, eh, Moira?" Tarry asked. "As in Ireland?" The words slipped from her. Tactless. Did Tarry redden? They swept off in a fox-trot. Tears ached in her throat. Her eyes were bright with unshed tears under the long lashes. "Good kid! We've had a swell time together, haven't we?" — as they returned to their table. "And how!" She smiled. He patted her hand. "We'll have to do it again, one of these days. But it won't be quite the same, will it? I mean, stolen things are always sweetest!" "You mean, your father and mine not knowing how we've been burning up the town?" "Just about that. But it's been a very innocuous burning, Moira." "It's been—heavenly!" He saw, for the first time, that she was emotionally moved. It touched him while it disconcerted him—that shimmer of tears held back. "Not going to weep in public?"

—gruffly. "Guess it's the thought of school, and all that misery to come?" Her heart cried, though she didn't voice the words: "It's the thought of you—and Lady Careen—" "It's the thought of the grand time I've had! You've been simply swell, Tarry!" "Oh, for crying out loud!" He paid the bill. The commissionaire opened the door of a taxi. They got in. "Mind if you drop me off? I've got to pack, and see to a few little things." "Of course, Tarry." A pause. Then, timidly: "Will you drop me a line if you're going to be away long?" "Oh, I'll drop you a postal here, hither and yon."

He was miles away from her in mind, already. She knew that. New pleasure—new faces—not forgetting Lady Careen—"Palm Beach will be a nice change from New York jolly as this is," said Tarry blithely as he swung his long legs out of the taxi at the entrance of the Biltmore.

Tarry didn't come back to Tournay Park that summer. His father took him on a trip to Europe via the Canal. He had his first taste of Continental life. A gay fling, according to the postal cards that reached Moira spasmodically. First, Deauville in the height of the season. Horse-racing. Yacht-racing. Pigeon-shooting. They stayed at the "ultra" Normandy hotel. They went often to the Casino. He lost a lot of money at the tables. Moira gathered that his father was being unusually lenient and accommodating.

Was it because of the presence of Lady Careen? Later, there was a picture in "Town and Country" of Tarry and the young Irishwoman at the fashionable Potiniere—a spot where Society always met at noon for pre-luncheon shrimps and cocktails, in Deauville. A gay likeness of Tarry, a bathrobe adorned with little parrots over his bathing suit. Lady Careen wore elegant beach pajamas and an enormous sun-

hat. It hid her face except for a wide Irish grin. Was she pretty? Moira wondered hopelessly. Of course she would be pretty, or Tarry wouldn't linger! Tarry loved beauty. Lacking Tarry, it was rather desolate round Madison, these hot August days. The summer visitors failed to interest her. She played a lot of tennis. The mail-carrier's arrival was most exciting—and disappointing. For not one letter came from Tarry. Just laconic messages on postals in answer to the letters she had made so carefully amusing—or were they amusing? Why didn't he answer her properly? They'd had such a wonderful time in New York! But not out of the usual for Tarry. He was born with the flair for amusement. Out of sight, out of mind. That was it. A postal from Le Touquet, from the Golf Hotel. There was a tour-nament on. Then a vague scribble from somewhere in the Dolomites. He was climbing with some fellows. Lady Careen was evidently out of the picture. But not for long. Presently a newspaper carried her photograph snapped with some prominent Americans on that new rubber bathing beach at Monte Carlo. She looked pretty. Tarry's next postal was from the same resort. The next, surprisingly, came from Scotland. He was on a "shoot-ing-party," it seemed. "Town Topics" shortly carried a picture of the guests at Lord Macgillivuddy's box which included the Irish girl as well as Tarry. She was the host's niece, and Tarry was there, at her invitation. (To be continued)

in Grandfather's Day

When your grandfather needed tobacco he probably went to the tobacconist in his community and had a lot of fun blending different types of tobacco together and trying out the different mixtures.

HE MAY HAVE FINALLY HIT on a combination of tobaccos that was pretty much to his fancy... that tasted all right to him and wasn't too strong. So the tobacconist, with an eye to future business, would make up this private blend and keep some of it on hand for him.

THIS HIT OR MISS METHOD of tobacco blending was never very satisfactory. But it proved one thing to both smokers and manufacturers, that you must have a blend of tobaccos to get better smoking results, because no one tobacco by itself has all the qualities necessary to a good smoke.

THE CHESTERFIELD tobacco buyers select and bid in at the auction sales the tobacco types that best fit the Chesterfield blend, which is the right combination of exactly the right amounts of Maryland, Burley and Bright with just enough Turkish. These tobaccos and the Chesterfield way of blending them make Chesterfield different from any other cigarette.

THAT IS WHY there are millions of enthusiastic Chesterfield smokers clear across the country. They find Chesterfield COOLER, BETTER-TASTING and DEFINITELY Milder... just what they want for real smoking pleasure. You can't buy a better cigarette.

"LOVE'S INTERLUDE" by -MAY-CHRISTIE

Moira Carewe met handsome, devil-may-care Tarleton Griggs during the era of prohibition, jazz and the "Black Bottom." The son of a rich man, Tarry lived recklessly—only for today. It was that spirit which Moira loved. During her Christmas vacation from boarding school, Moira stayed at a modest hotel, in New York, with her father who was doing research work for the Museum of Natural History. To be near her, Tarry just moved from his Madison, Connecticut, home into his father's New York apartment, while the latter was out of town, even though he knew "the old man'll raise the devil!" Then followed a merry round of the night clubs and theaters.

CHAPTER II

Came the last night. The butler at Tourney Park, near Madison, had telephoned Tarry at his father's apartment in the Biltmore hotel. "Dad—the old buzzard—put in a transcontinental call for me at home, at one in the morning from Frisco! Tubbs tipped me off to the bad news—he's our butler, you know—a darned nice chap! He rose to the occasion and lied like a gentleman—told Dad I was out at the stables with Bess, the roan mare—she's foaling—said he couldn't reach the vet, and I couldn't leave to come to the phone or Bess might kick off! I do know about horses," said Tarry gaily, "so the old man swallowed that, hook, line and sinker. But here's the catch! He left a message I was to 'phone him directly I returned to the house. You know he's as suspicious as the devil!"

"What did you do?" Moira asked. She was worried about this subterfuge. She didn't want Tarry to get in trouble with his father. She felt gaily somehow. "It was a ticklish situation," Tarry said, loftily, "but leave it to me to get out of a jam! After I'd left you last night—or rather, in the small hours of this morning—and got Tubbs' message, I got the clear at the switchboard in the building to get Dad's Frisco hotel on the line, then to say, very distinctly: 'Madison calling,' and to repeat it at least twice after he got through to Dad, and then I piped in!"

"I thought at first it was New York calling," said the old man, who's as cagey as they come.

"Well, I suppose night-calls do go through New York. This is home I'm speaking from all right," I told him. "I'll try and get a better connection, and I made a dash for the service-phone. Cut in again and say: 'Madison calling—three minutes is almost up!' I said to the clerk downstairs. It worked like a charm!"

"Did your father have anything special to say to you?" Moira asked.

"The main idea in phoning from that distance at that hour was to catch me out, naturally," Tarry chortled. "He inquired about Bess, and when I said she was better—that my ministrations had turned the trick or what-have-you—he suggested I join him in Palm Beach right away, and we'll do the races and some yachting, and so forth. Not at all a bad idea!"

"Oh, I'll drop you a postal here, hither and yon," said Tarry.

She tried to smile gaily, congratulate Tarry. But at the word: "Palm Beach," she had instantly thought of Lady Careen. The Irish girl was riding in those races. She was thoroughbred as her horses. One of those thoroughbreds had been given her from the Griggs stables. The rumor had spread round Madison that snobbish, self-made Joseph Griggs wanted blue blood in the family and not merely in the stables, and that the fortune he had made importing and exporting groceries was to have the stamp of aristocracy set upon it—through his only son—and Lady Careen. This was the second season the girl had come from Ireland, to do New York and Palm Beach, her hostesses being names to conjure with among what was left of the old Four Hundred.

"You look as though you're seeing 'little people'—fairies, eh, Moira?" Tarry asked.

"As in Ireland?" The words slipped from her. Factless.

Did Tarry reddens?

They swept off in a fox-trot. Tears ached in her throat. Her eyes were bright with unshed tears under the long lashes.

"Good kid! We've had a swell time together, haven't we?"—as they returned to their table.

"And how!" She smiled. He patted her hand.

"We'll have to do it again, one of these days. But it won't be quite the same, will it? I mean, stolen things are always sweetest!"

"You mean, your father and mine not knowing how we've been burning up the town?"

"Just about that. But it's been a very innocuous burning, Moira."

"It's been—heavenly!"

He saw, for the first time, that she was emotionally moved. It touched him while it disconcerted him—that shimmer of tears held back.

"Not going to weep in public?"

gruffly. "Guess it's the thought of school, and all that misery to come?"

Her heart cried, though she didn't voice the words: "It's the thought of you—and Lady Careen—"

"It's the thought of the grand time I've had! You've been simply swell, Tarry!"

"Oh, for crying out loud!" He paid the bill. The commissionaire opened the door of a taxi. They got in.

"Mind if you drop me off? I've got to pack, and see to a few little things."

"Of course, Tarry."

A pause. Then, timidly: "Will you drop me a line if you're going to be away long?"

"Oh, I'll drop you a postal here, hither and yon."

He was miles away from her in mind, already. She knew that. New pleasures—raw faces—not forgetting Lady Careen—

"Palm Beach will be a nice change from New York jolly as this old burg is," said Tarry blithely as he swung his long legs out of the taxi at the entrance of the Biltmore.

Tarry didn't come back to Tourney Park that summer. His father took him on a trip to Europe via the Canal. He had his first taste of Continental life. A gay fling, according to the postal cards that reached Moira spasmodically.

First, Deauville in the height of the season. Horse-racing. Yacht-racing. Pigeon-shooting. They stayed at the "ultra" Normandy hotel. They went often to the Casino. He lost a lot of money at the tables. Moira gathered that his father was being unusually lenient and accommodating.

Was it because of the presence of Lady Careen?

Later, there was a picture in "Town and Country" of Tarry and the young Irishwoman at the fashionable Potiniere—a spot, where Society always met at noon for pre-luncheon shrimps and cocktails, in Deauville. A gay likeness of Tarry, a bathrobe adorned with little parrots over his bathing suit.

Lady Careen wore elegant beach pajamas and an enormous sun-

bat. It hid her face except for a wide Irish grin.

Was she pretty? Moira wondered hopelessly. Of course she would be pretty, or Tarry wouldn't linger! Tarry loved beauty.

Lacking Tarry, it was rather desolate round Madison, these hot August days. The summer visitors failed to interest her. She played a lot of tennis.

The mail-carrier's arrival was most exciting—and disappointing. For not one letter came from Tarry. Just laconic messages on postals in answer to the letters she had made so carefully amusing—or were they amusing? Why didn't he answer her properly?

They'd had such a wonderful time in New York!

But not out of the usual for Tarry. He was born with the flair for amusement. Out of sight, out of mind. That was it.

A postal from Le Touquet, from the Golf Hotel. There was a tournament on.

Then a vague scribble from somewhere in the Dolomites. He was climbing with some fellows. Lady Careen was evidently out of the picture. But not for long. Presently a newspaper carried her photograph snapped with some prominent Americans on that new rubber bathing beach at Monte Carlo. She looked pretty. Tarry's next postal was from the same resort.

The next, surprisingly, came from Scotland. He was on a "shoot-ing-party," it seemed. "Town Topics" shortly carried a picture of the guests at Lord Macgillivuddy's box which included the Irish girl as well as Tarry. She was the host's niece, and Tarry was there, at her invitation.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white slipper satin embroidered with seed pearls. Her gown had long sleeves, a sweetheart neckline and full skirt. Her shoulder length veil was of lace and tulle and was held by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and stela.

VICKS VAPORUB

Relieve the misery As Most Mothers Do

Rub chest, throat, and back thoroughly with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warm cloth. Right away VapoRub goes to work to relieve the misery.

VapoRub brings double relief because of its double action. It acts both as a stimulating poultice and a medicated vapor. Its poultice action penetrates the surface skin; its soothing vapors are breathed direct to irritated air passages. Try it. You'll find that often by morning the misery of the cold is gone.

The altar of the church was decorated with baskets of giant white chrysanthemums, lilies and carnations and candelabra. The bride wore a floor length gown of white slipper satin embroidered with gold beads. Her gown had long sleeves, a sweetheart neckline and full skirt. Her shoulder length veil was of lace and tulle and was held by a coronet of seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of bride's roses and sterna.

Miss Janet Miller, her sister's only attendant, wore a gown of aqua satin, floor length, with a square neckline and carried an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Howard Thayer of Gallion served as best man. Mrs. Robert Manning, sister of the groom, assisted at the organ with the nuptial music.

Following the ceremony 32 guests were received at the wedding dinner served at Valley Golf club. Tables were arranged in a U shape with the bridal white carried out in appointments. KLEIN'S WORK IS DEPENDABLE

Rates High With Motorists; Expense Is Kept To Minimum

When a fellow's car or truck is wrecked his chief desire is to find someone who is able to make the necessary repairs. The thing uppermost in one's mind is to have the work done with minimum delay and at as low a cost as first class work will permit.

Just how pretentious a setting is provided for auto services or repairs is of little concern to the car owner. He or she is more concerned with the locating of a skilled mechanic—a repair man who is acquainted with straightening a bent frame or body.

Such reasoning sends a large number of Salem car owners to Matt Klein on Newgarden ave. Mr. Klein has had years of experience with all makes of cars and has taken special training at equipment manufacturers' schools to learn the best methods to do this specialized work.

Best system equipment of the latest design aids much with this work. Frames and other parts are straightened without the use of heat. Welding, painting, glass replacement and upholstery are all phases of the body and fender work which receives the careful supervision of Mr. Klein.

NEW FARMALLS ARE POWERFUL

Engines Are Smooth, Economical And Are Long-lasting

Out of the richness of 35 years of tractor-building experience, Harvester engineers have powered the new Farmall tractors with the finest 4-cylinder gasoline-distillate engines ever built. For they know that for smoothness of operation, fuel economy, and the ability to give long years of trouble-free service, the four-cylinder engine makes the ideal farm tractor power unit.

List Features

Here are some of the features of these new engines:

Valves in head
Removable cylinder sleeves
Tocco-hardened crankshaft
Precision-type bearings
Force-feed lubrication
Floto oil screen
Large air, oil and fuel cleaners
Extra large flywheels
Valves in head for easy adjustment and servicing, and more efficient handling of distillate or kerosene. Removable cylinder sleeves for economical replacement when cylinders become worn from long war, or scored through accident—replacement makes the engine like new.

Tocco-hardening—a new electrical process that hardens and tempers the bearing surfaces of the crankshaft and greatly lengthens the life of shaft and bearings.

Replacement Easy
Precision-type bearings are self-adjusting, making replacement easy. Force-feed lubrication, of course, means that oil is forced under pressure to all bearing surfaces. The Floto oil screen causes the supply to the pump to be taken from the top of the crankcase oil, thus supplying the engine with sediment-free oil. The large air cleaner is of the oil type and thoroughly removes dust and grit from the air going to the carburetor. The oil cleaner has a replaceable filtering element which makes it possible to use the oil twice as long without draining. The fuel strainer has a glass sediment bowl. The large flywheels enable these engines to deliver smooth, even power at any governed speed.

These features, plus the highest quality of precision workmanship and most rigid inspection, make Farmall engines the finest to be found in any tractor.

If you are in the market for tractor power, it makes no difference for what work, there is a Farmall built to meet your requirements. A visit to the Salona Supply Co., on W. Pershing St., will convince you; and don't forget they maintain a completely equipped garage to care for any service that may be needed.

PARIS AIDS IN YULE PLANNING

Helps To Take Cleaning Load Off Housewife's Shoulders

Cleanliness is an eminently outstanding phase of the holiday season, and, for this reason, the Paris Cleaners, too, are an important part of the program.

More and more the busy housewife has come to depend on the Paris for assistance in the task of preparing the home for the holidays. She is learning that there are countless items about the home which can be handled by the Paris taking the load from her own shoulders.

Important is the fact that once she sends the work out, she knows that it's coming back the way she wants it. It is a worry off her mind and the charge is so reasonable that she usually wonders why she hadn't thought of it before.

It also pays to be personally clean, too. Now is the time to have your garments renewed and refreshed for the holiday season. The Paris will be glad to call at your home, pick up your garments and return them to you. The charge is slight considering that quality work is guaranteed in every aspect.

SHOPPERS FIND INVITING SPOT

Top Brands In Musical Instruments, Home Appliances Shown

The Finley Music company is a veritable fairland of musical instruments and home appliances, an inviting spot for shoppers, as the Christmas shopping period wanes.

Every department—radio, range, music and appliance—is bulging with fresh, new merchandise, every item tempting and inviting.

In the radio department, R. C. A. and Victor mantle and cabinet sets, as well as combination record players, are featured. And, it might be mentioned, record-playing is growing by leaps and bounds throughout the country. Finley's record department is most complete.

The housewife will thrill to the sight of the home appliances to be found, including the complete Westinghouse line of refrigerators, Thor washers and Royal sweepers, all the latest models and all new merchandise.

Leading Instruments

The well known and justly famous Baldwin and Lester pianos are shown, in console spinets. C. G. Conn, Ltd., Lehner and King band instruments, Slingerland drums and accessories, are the recognized leaders.

With these lines, no artist need look further. Gibson guitars and string instruments, Carman and Hohner accordions, in fact all leaders in their respective phases of music, are in stock waiting the lucky boy or girl who is fortunate enough to receive a musical Christmas.

And it is interesting to note their application to the Finley School of Music, a growing, flourishing institution. Finley's, as you know, will provide you or any member of your family with a complete series of lessons with any instrument. If you'd like, they'll deliver the instrument itself, with a certificate for the lessons, as a Christmas morning gift.

Satisfactory terms may be arranged in connection with any purchase and right now a cash rebate is being allowed on any purchase, for cash, except where there is a trade-in. This rebate even applies to a down payment. Finley's, of course, keeps up a thoroughly modern service department for the benefit of its customers.

Failure To Offset Cold-weather Hazards May Prove Costly

Added improvements and comforts of modern motor cars should not cause one to neglect providing of full winter protection for an auto, according to Freeman Tyson, operating a complete service station at the intersection of Routes 62 and 14 on West State St.

Ownership of a car having the latest engineering developments should prompt the driver to more carefully winterize before it is too late. Failure to protect the car against cold weather may result in serious damage, costly repair bills and unnecessary safety risks while on the highway.

Tyson's Freedom service station is equipped to completely winter-proof a car or truck. Attention will be given the radiator by changing water, flushing and providing enough anti-freeze fluid to prevent any trouble, regardless of low temperatures.

Winter Lubricants
Serious damage to a motor or moving parts can be averted by use of Tyson's modern lubrication department. Complete draining of old, worn oil and removal of dirty grease are provided before proper lubricants for winter use are substituted.

Careful attention is given to properly lubricating transmission and differential of all models serviced. Trained attendants in the lubrication department use the famous Checkchart system to give the most efficient service.

The department handles the famous Freedom lubricants. Most modern equipment is used to quickly but carefully give the best lubrication service possible.

Safer and more comfortable winter driving also is possible through use of auto accessories sold by Tyson's service station. These include tires, batteries and heaters, defrosters, fog lamps and other accessories in demand at this time of year.

Ford's 1940 Improvements Fulfill Motorist's Needs

As the end of 1939 approaches and a new year looms ahead, more and more motorists in the Salem district are buying, or making plans to purchase that 1940 Ford V-8, with its 22 important improvements, according to E. L. Grate of the Grate Motor Co., on S. Ellsworth ave.

Ford V-8 is fulfilling the wants of more people in a car than any new model on the market. What ever a driver wants most in a car, it's sure to be found in the new, improved V-8.

Delivery of Ford-made cars and trucks, Mr. Grate states, has been prompt, despite a heavier demand than before for many models. The showrooms and garages contain numerous Ford V-8 models for inspection, and other models and body color choices can be obtained for motorists within a short time.

More Conveniences
For convenience, the V-8 has finger-tip gearshift on the steering post at no extra cost and many new refinements. Mechanically, the V-type, eight-cylinder engine gives smoother performance, a larger battery and generator are used and powerful hydraulic brakes are standard on all models.

These features, Grate salesmen will point out, are only a few of those found on the 1940 Ford. It has the sealed-beam headlights, two windshield wipers and many others, to say nothing of unsurpassed beauty and luxury.

Bargains are plentiful. The ads. will tell you where.

New Comforts
Salesmen of the Ford agency here ask prospective customers just what they want in a car. Those wants are found soon after a person gets behind the wheel of the new V-8. Around its general economy are centered all modern improvements introduced in the lowest field, plus many that Ford alone offers.

Comfort is more closely associated with the new V-8 than ever. The 1940 models are roomier inside, much quieter throughout and have an ingenious system of controlled ventilation. Seat cushions of new construction are used, and the 85hp models have improved spring suspension and a new torsion bar ride-stabilizer.

When a fellow's car or truck is wrecked his chief desire is to find someone who is able to make the necessary repairs. The thing upmost in one's mind is to have the work done with minimum delay and at as low a cost as first class work will permit.

Ford's 1940 Improvements Fulfill Motorist's Needs

As the end of 1939 approaches and a new year looms ahead, more and more motorists in the Salem district are buying, or making plans to purchase that 1940 Ford V-8, with its 22 important improvements, according to E. L. Grate of the Grate Motor Co., on S. Ellsworth ave.

Ford V-8 is fulfilling the wants of more people in a car than any new model on the market. What ever a driver wants most in a car, it's sure to be found in the new, improved V-8.

Delivery of Ford-made cars and trucks Mr. Grate states, has been prompt, despite a heavier demand than before for many models. The showrooms and garage contain numerous Ford V-8 models for inspection, and other models and body color choices can be obtained for motorists within a short time.

More Conveniences

For convenience, the V-8 has finger-tip gearshift on the steering post at no extra cost and many new refinements. Mechanically, the V-type, eight-cylinder engine gives smoother performance, a larger battery and generator are used and powerful hydraulic brakes are standard on all models.

These features, Grate salesmen will point out, are only a few of those found on the 1940 Ford. It has the sealed-beam headlights, two windshield wipers and many others, to say nothing of unsurpassed beauty and luxury.

OHIO WESLEYAN FLASHES POWER

Battling Bishops Loom Strong After Beating Cornell

(By Associated Press)
The Battling Bishops of Ohio Wesleyan university promise to be a power in Ohio collegiate basketball again this winter, based on their intercollegiate 42 to 36 victory over the Big Red of Cornell Saturday night.

The Bishops did a convincing job of trimming the lads from Ithaca, N. Y., who are painfully remembered in central Ohio for the gridiron lacing they handed Ohio State this fall. In the first ten minutes Wesleyan had a 20 to 7 lead and put in its second team.

Teddo university's Rockets, in a double-leader, trounced Hillsdale 42 to 29, and then walloped Findlay in an Ohio conference game 68 to 37.

Kenyon's Lords celebrated their first cage victory in 17 starts with a 21 to 17 decision over Bluffton. Hank Mogus, towering guard, hopped 18 points as the Youngstown Penguins trimmed Bowling Green 37 to 31. Otterbein, winner last week over Ohio State's sophomore's, was upset by Wilmington 31 to 32.

Two Cleveland schools opened with Alumni (ams. Western Reserve winning 56 to 29, while Case was on the short end of a 59 to 47 score.

PACKERS SPANK GIANTS TO COP GRIDIRON TITLE

Green Bay Wins Its Fifth Professional Football Crown

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 11.—Green Bay's mighty Packers rolled the famed defense of the New York Giants with an unstoppable combination of power and deceptive passing and toppled the defending champions from their national professional football throne 27 to 0.

It was Green Bay's fifth world championship, but no victory was any sweeter than this. Before an overflow crowd of 32,279 that swarmed into the compact little stadium on the state fair grounds, the Packers avenged last year's playoff defeat with the deadliest attack ever displayed in a title game.

Three touchdowns and two field goals produced the most decisive playoff victory in history.

Giants' Attack Stopped
On defense, the Packers were so effective New York's attack was throttled completely until the closing minutes of play when Green Bay, loaded with reserves, yielded 49 yards in a single drive which the final run scored.

Three times in the first half the Giants attempted long field goals, their most proficient weapon all season long. But none came close.

The Packers used a simple plan of attack. They drove their backs into the line time after time early in the third period and drew the Giants in close. Thereafter the defending champions were easy prey for the brilliant forward passing of Arnie Herber and Cecil Isbell, who cut loose with two touchdown passes and set up the third.

After 10 minutes of play, the Packers took the ball on their own 44 and marched straight down the field to the Giants' six-yard line whence Herber drew the Giants out of position by taking a pass to his left, then firing it straight over the line of scrimmage to Milt Gantenbein who stood in the end zone. Tiny Engenbretsen place kicked the extra point.

Passes Are Intercepted
Twice in the scoreless second period intercepted passes halted the Giants, once after they had driven 37 yards to Green Bay's nine.

In the third period, the Packers rolled under a full head of steam. A 35-yard drive on straight line plays carried to New York's 21. Engenbretsen dropped back to his 29 and place-kicked a perfect field goal.

Gantenbein intercepted a short forward pass by Ed Demowick after the kickoff and went four yards to the Giants' 33. On third down, with the Giants pressed in tightly to halt an anticipated line play, Isbell spun and faded back while little Joe Laws was streaking past the secondary. Isbell lofted a high, wobbly pass over Danokski's head and Laws snatched it on the seven-yard line. He ambled over standing up and Engenbretsen place-kicked the extra point extending the lead to 17 to 0.

42-Yard Goal by Smith
Herber's 31-yard pass to Harry Jacunski set up a 42-yard field goal by Ernie Smith midway through the fourth period and after that one, the Giants opened up with desperate passes.

But Sweden Green Bay center, picked one of these out to air and ran it 15 yards to New York's 15. On second down, Jacunski skied 12 yards to the one on an end around play and Eddie Janowski plunged over on the first play. Smith booted the extra point.

Hunters Warned To Secure Permit In Goshen Township

Farmers Banded Together In Club To Protect Their Land Against Game Poachers

A warning to hunters to secure a permit before hunting on land in the eastern part of Goshen township, Mahoning county, was issued today by members of the East Goshen Gun club.

The club includes about 50 farmers from the eastern part of the township who have banded together to protect their land against game poachers.

More than 1,300 acres of ground owned by club members has been posted. Hunters are being warned not to trespass on this land unless they have first secured a permit from one of the club members.

Farmers who belong to the club are not attempting to prevent hunting in the area, but are requiring all hunters who use their land to register with one of the club members.

Permits and arm bands will be issued hunters if they call at the home of any one of the members. While using the land, hunters are required to park their cars near the home of the club member from whom they secured their permit.

The club is a non-profit, cooperative organization and has no officers. Permits and arm bands are provided hunters free of charge.

SOUTHERN CAL PLAYERS REST

Trojans Given Vacation After Three Tough Grid Games

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—Southern California's Trojan football team began a brief vacation today, giving the Monday morning quarterbacks free rein to mull over the coming Rose Bowl battle with Tennessee and rehash Troy's 1939 grid campaign.

The fact that Coach Howard Jones' eleven backed into the Rose Bowl was discounted by ardent backers of S. C.

Their best explanation of the coreless tie between the noble — and highly favored — Trojans and the University of California at Los Angeles is simple. The Troy squad was still dead on its feet from two successive tough engagements with Notre Dame and Washington.

These two teams took a lot out of S. C., but Tennessee may expect something tougher Jan. 1 at Pasadena than the Uclans bumped into Saturday before the record breaking throng of 103,000.

The Jonesmen found their vaunted three-deep strength shaken up by injuries, several of their key men were not in good physical condition and the whole club looked like it had been arguing with a locomotive the night before.

Among the guests were Dr. John B. Sutherland, former Pitt coach. After a honeymoon in New York and White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., the couple will live in Chicago.

Karrs, former fullback at Duquesne, bails from Arnold, Pa.

OHIO WESLEYAN FLASHES POWER

Battling Bishops Loom Strong After Beating Cornell

(By Associated Press)
The Battling Bishops of Ohio Wesleyan university promise to be a power in Ohio collegiate basketball again this winter, based on their intercollegiate 42 to 36 victory over the Big Red of Cornell Saturday night.

The Bishops did a convincing job of trimming the lads from Ithaca, N. Y., who are painfully remembered in central Ohio for the gridiron lacing they handed Ohio State this fall. In the first ten minutes Wesleyan had a 20 to 7 lead and put in its second team.

Toledo university's Rockets, in a double-header, trounced Hillsdale 42 to 29, and then walloped Findlay in an Ohio conference game 68 to 37.

Kenyon's Lords celebrated their first cage victory in 17 starts with a 21 to 17 decision over Bluffton.

Hank Mogus, towering guard, hooped 18 points as the Youngstown Penguins trimmed Bowling Green 37 to 31. Otterbein, winner last week over Ohio State's sophomores, was upset by Wilmington 31 to 32.

Two Cleveland schools opened with Alumni jams, Western Reserve winning 56 to 29, while Case was on the short end of a 59 to 47 score.

PACKERS SPANK GIANTS TO COP GRIDIRON TITLE

Green Bay Wins Its Fifth Professional Football Crown

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 11.—Green Bay's mighty Packers riddled the famed defense of the New York Giants with an unstoppable combination of power and deceptive passing and toppled the defending champions from their national professional football throne 27 to 16.

It was Green Bay's fifth world championship, but no victory was any sweeter than this. Before an overflow crowd of 32,279 that swarmed into the compact little stadium on the state fair grounds, the Packers avenged last year's playoff defeat with the deadliest attack ever displayed in a title game.

Three touchdowns and two field goals produced the most decisive victory in history.

Giants' Attack Stopped
On defense, the Packers were so effective New York's attack was throttled completely until the closing minutes of play when Green Bay, loaded with reserves, yielded 49 yards in a single drive which ended on the three-yard line as the final gun sounded.

Three times in the first half the Giants attempted long field goals, their most proficient weapon all season long. But none came close.

The Packers used a simple plan of attack. They drove their backs into the line time after time early in the third period and drew the Giants in close. Thereafter the defending champions were easy prey for the brilliant forward pass of Arnie Herber and Cecil Isbell, who cut loose with two touchdowns passes and set up the third.

After 10 minutes of play, the Packers took the ball on their own 44 and marched straight down the field to the Giants' six-yard line whence Herber drew the Giants out of position by faking a pass to his left, then firing it straight over the line of scrimmage to Cecil Isbell, who cut loose with two touchdowns passes and set up the third.

Twice in the scoreless second period intercepted passes halted the Giants, once after they had driven 37 yards to Green Bay's nine.

In the third period, the Packers rolled under a full head of steam. A 35-yard drive on straight line plays carried to New York's 21. Engenbretsen dropped back to his 29 and place-kicked a perfect field goal.

Gantenbein intercepted a short forward pass by Ed Danowski after the kickoff and went four yards to the Giants' 33. On third down, with the Giants pressed in tightly to halt an anticipated line play, Isbell spun and faded back while little Joe Laws used striking past the secondary. Laws lofted a high, wobbly pass over Danowski's head and Laws snatched it on the seven-yard line. He ambled over standing up and Engenbretsen place-kicked the extra point extending the lead to 17 to 0.

42-Yard Goal by Smith
Herber's 31-yard pass to Harry Janowski set up a 42-yard field goal by Ernie Smith midway through the fourth period and after that one, the Giants opened up with desperate passes.

Bud Svendsen, Green Bay center, picked one of these out of the air and ran it 15 yards to New York's 15. On second down, Janowski raced 12 yards to the one on an end around play and Eddie Janowski plunked over on the first play. Smith booted the extra point.

Hunters Warned To Secure Permit In Goshen Township

Farmers Banded Together In Club To Protect Their Land Against Game Poachers

A warning to hunters to secure a permit before hunting on land in the eastern part of Goshen township, Mahoning county, was issued today by members of the East Goshen Gun club.

The club includes about 50 farmers from the eastern part of the township who have banded together to protect their land against game poachers.

More than 1,300 acres of ground owned by club members has been posted. Hunters are being warned not to trespass on this land unless they have first secured a permit from one of the club members.

Farmers who belong to the club are not attempting to prevent hunting in the area, but are requiring all hunters who use their land to register with one of the club members.

Permits and arm bands will be issued hunters if they call at the home of any one of the members. While using the land, hunters are required to park their cars near the home of the club member from whom they secured their permit.

The club is a non-profit, cooperative organization and has no officers. Permits and arm bands are provided hunters free of charge.

LISBON WHIPS MALVERN HIGH
Blue Devils Triumph In Second Game Of Season

LISBON, Dec. 11.—Gaining their first victory of the 1939-40 season, Lisbon High's Blue Devils trounced Malvern cagers, 20-11, here Saturday.

It was Lisbon's second game of the season. The Blue Devils dropped a decision to Youngstown Woodrow Wilson in their first start.

Lisbon led throughout the game, holding a 6-3 advantage at the end of the first period and 9-4 at halftime.

Principal actions by the convention were approval of some 115 records and noteworthy performances, including the three indoor marks set on the Dartmouth college boards; awarding championship meetings for next year, among them, the men's basketball to Denver, men's outdoor track and field to the Pacific association, senior boxing to Boston, and women's outdoor swimming to Portland, Ore.

Returning to the yardage system of measurement, and widening the distribution of points for the championships in this sport; and creation of a 14-man Pan-Leedy 1 0 2
Judge Mahoney as chairman, to continue the study of and start preliminary preparations for some sort of games to substitute for the 1940 Olympics if Finland finally relinquishes them.

SOUTHERN CAL PLAYERS REST
Trojans Given Vacation After Three Tough Grid Games

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—Southern California's Trojan football team began a brief vacation today, giving the Monday morning quarterbacks free rein to mull over the coming Rose Bowl battle with Tennessee and rehash Troy's 1939 grid campaign.

The fact that Coach Howard Jones' eleven backed into the Rose Bowl was discounted by ardent backers of S. C.

Their best explanation of the scoreless tie between the noble and highly favored—Trojans and the University of California at Los Angeles is simple. The Troy squad was still dead on its feet from two successive tough engagements with Notre Dame and Washington.

These two teams took a lot out of S. C., but Tennessee may expect something tougher Jan. 1 at Pasadena than the Uclans bumped into Saturday before the record breaking throng of 103,000.

The Jonesmen found their vaunted three-deep strength shaken up by injuries, several of their key men were not in good physical condition and the whole club looked like it had been arguing with a locomotive the night before.

Goldberg Marries
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 11.—Marshall (Biggie) Goldberg, former Pitt All-America football player now with the Chicago Cardinals pro eleven, and Florence Dittelbaum, Pittsburgh model, were married Sunday.

Among the guests were Dr. John B. Sutherland, former Pitt coach. After a honeymoon in New York and White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., the couple will live in Chicago.

Negro Chiefs Give Hitler Royal "Hoot"
(By International News Service)
LONDON.—Negroes of Africa have expressed their disapproval of the fuhrer and his war and have voted "three hootings for Hitler," according to a native newspaper which has just reached London.

The natives met at a Gold Coast Durbar held in connection with the Odwira celebrations. The report of the meeting, addressed by the Omanihe, Nana Ofori Kuma II of Akwapim, is as follows:

"Judgment was entered against Hitler by his chiefs and councilors. After the Omanihe had stated the case of Great Britain and Hitler's Germany, all the linguists rose up and went into consultation, and on their return the Chief Linguist gave judgment."

"This went in favor of his Majesty the King, representing Great Britain, or against Hitler, stated the report."

"Three cheers were raised for the King for winning the case, and three hootings against Hitler, whose case was bad."

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Al Weill, who owns the biggest fight stable in the country, will give the other managers a break by closing up shop and letting all his boxers spend Christmas at home.

McKechnie's dinner for the other National league managers didn't adjourn until 5 a. m. attention scouts: Lefty O'Doul has another Dimaggio on the way up.

But since he is only a cousin of Joe and Co., he probably won't be able to hit better than .339 or so.

Wonder if the pros are going to use those new fast golf balls in the Miami Open this week? Wasn't that Associated Press All America a honey?

Today's Guest Star
Dan Daniel, N. Y. World-Telegram: Doc Prothro, manager of the Phillies, got permission from Bill Terry to call Zeke Bonura over the telephone at New Orleans and ask him if he would accept a salary cut with Philadelphia.

Zeke, who got $5,000 from the Giants, told Doc he would accept $19,000 from the Phillies.

Ray Arce, famous New York fight trainer, has started a farm system with talent-developing stations in Boston, Detroit, Chicago and New York.

Bob Seeds of the Giants, who owns the prosperous Amarillo (Tex) club, has offered the manager's post to Roger Peckinpaugh, who was once Bob's manager.

Favors Third Term
If FDR decides to try it again Babe Herman, who used to stop fly balls with his head in the Dodger outfield, will take the stump.

The Babe is still getting all the breaks. He went into the turkey business this year and what did the President do but give him another Thanksgiving?

The other night the Troy (N. Y.) basketball team had 16 foul shots to make and came through on every one of them. Can anybody top that one?

Yep, Same Guy
Larry MacPhail went to Cincinnati to get Joe Medwick and came back with Gus Mancuso. Which reminds Marcus Griffin of the N. Y. Enquirer that Larry once took a jaunt into Germany to get the Kaiser and came back with an ash tray.

Wow! Play, professor.

COLUMBIANA TO START SEASON
Play Mineral Ridge In First Cage Game Tuesday

COLUMBIANA, Dec. 11.—Columbiana High school's basketball team will open its 1939-40 season Tuesday night, meeting Mineral Ridge here.

The Ridgers, who will be attempting to avenge last year's 52-23 defeat, boast three wins this season.

While Coach Al Beach's lads will be playing their first game and with only two weeks practice, he can use practically the same combination last year. He has Burke and Glicker available for the forwards, Zellers and Dewalt at guards and either Kyser or Hollinger at center.

Eckert and Bush, who also ended last season on the first squad, are back for another try. Faulk, Hively, Howell and Barrow are reserves with experience, and a number of freshmen are fighting hard for places on the reserve team.

All home games will start at 6:45 with a Junior High preliminary.

SALEM, N. J.—When the roll was called in Salem High school, Marie Hoer, 16, and Harry Hogate, 19, failed to answer to their names.

An investigation revealed that they had been married.
